

WANTED :

Physicists, Engineers, Statisticians, Computer Scientists, and Mathematicians

... to advance the revolutionary opportunities emerging in the biomedical sciences.

The National Institute of General Medical Sciences (NIGMS) seeks to forge interdisciplinary partnerships between biomedical researchers and mathematical scientists and engineers. Areas of interest include, but are not limited to:

- › Population Dynamics
- › Developmental Patterning
- › Cell Mechanics
- › Metabolic Flux
- › Signal Transduction Circuitry
- › Organ System Networks
- › Cell-Cell Communication

For more information about new funding opportunities that include grants for research, training, and workshops, please visit the NIGMS Web site.
